Sky Slider draws crowd on first day

Haliburton's Sky Slider opened for business Saturday morning, and despite the fact that the chairlift is not yet operational, several hundred people turned out to ride the twisting track.

Some 90 people were on hand for the 10 a.m. opening and got their first ride free. Others paid only half price because the ride is not yet in full swing.

Most riders appeared cautious on their first trip down, braking often to round corners, but a few people dared a full speed ride down the course and emerged smiling and unscathed.

The tour train is being used to carry riders to the top of Skyline Hill until the chairlift is operational.

An official opening is set for Saturday, July 18.

Balky machine causes delay of County Echo

A breakdown in one of the Echo's two computer typesetting machines has forced publication to be delayed one day.

The machine, which sets headlines and large copy for advertisements, could not be repaired until Wednesday morning and printing had to be delayed until Wednesday afternoon.

The Echo staff are keeping their fingers crossed in hopes that the gremlins have been banished for the time being, and that publication will return to its normal Wednesday schedule next week.

We regret any inconvenience to our readers and advertisers.

Haliburton's Sky Slider opened for business Saturday, and hundreds of people of all ages turned out to try the ride, which is not slated to officially open until next Saturday. Most people were cautious on their first ride down the 1400 foot long slide, applying the brake often to slow their descent. But fast or slow, the ride proved to be fun, as the smile on this rider's face shows.

OPP storefront aids public relations

After four months of operation, the OPP storefront in Haliburton Village seems to be creating good rapport between the community and the police, detachment commander, Sergeant Bill Bailey says.

"We feel it's a very good operation. We're certainly reaching a lot more of the community," Bailey said in a telephone interview Thursday.

The storefront operation, located next to the old Bank of Montreal building on Highland Street, is used by officers on an irregular schedule when they are patrolling the Haliburton area, Bailey said. More often, officers might park their cruiser in front of the office while they patrol the village streets on foot creating a "better rapport", Bailey said.

Since February 23 to June 15, 126 inquiries were made at the office while police officers spent 74.5 man-hours actually in the office. Those hours are broken down to: 16 hours for off-street visits, 34 hours of criminal follow-up interviews, 43 hours of general interviews, 32 hours spent completing follow-up reports, four hours of traffic report follow-up and six hours spent visiting with local authorities.

According to Bailey the police force is in "constant touch" with the municipal council, who seems to be "very pleased" with the effect the storefront operation is having.

With the increased visibility of the police, wilful damage and vandalism complaints are "way down" and occurrences in general might have dropped 15 to 20 per cent, as a rough estimate, Bailey said.

"We're grateful to the community for having the storefront there," Bailey said. After vandalism problems earlier this year, the community offered the building rent-free to the police.

"It's been a boon to us," Bailey said.

"We want to encourage street walk-in," he added. Bailey emphasized the office is not manned on a full-time basis and anyone needing assistance is reminded they must call the Minden detachment office.

Earl Cooper resigns seat on Board of Ed.

Earl Cooper has resigned his seat on the Haliburton County Board of Education. Cooper, elected for a third term on the board last November, cited business pressures which keep him from devoting enough time to board affairs as his reason for resigning.

The resignation was accepted by the board at a meeting last Tuesday. Dysart et al trustees Len Salvatori, Derrell Stamp and Nancy Stinson were appointed to a committee to recommend a replacement for Cooper.

Absence costs trustee seat

A member of the Haliburton County Board of Education has lost his seat through lack of attendance.

Dave MacDonald, trustee for Stanhope, McClintock and Livingstone Townships, was removed from his seat at a meeting last Tuesday.

Trustees initially decided to send a letter of warning to MacDonald and give him a second chance, but the decision was later revised to reflect the requirements of The Education Act, (Sect. 202.1), which states that a

Increases vary from 11.6% to 18.1%

Elementary teachers settle for pay raise

Elementary school teachers' salaries will increase between 11.6 and 18.1 per cent, depending on qualifications and experience, under a one year contract ratified by the Haliburton County Board of Education last Tuesday night.

The 1981-82 contract will bring the salary of a teacher with maximum academic qualifications and 11 years experience to $36,000, while a first year teacher with minimum qualifications will earn $17,000.

The settlement, including annual increment on the 11 year grid, represents an average increase of 14.9 per cent, but staff reductions will cut the actual dollar increase to the board to 10.2 per cent, according to business administrator Jim Leworthy.

The figure is within 1981-82 budget projections, and will not result in a deficit, Leworthy said.

The public school teachers were coming off a two year contract that had left their salaries behind the provincial average, and sought both 'catchup' and an overall increase to match the cost of living rise.

But the board sought, and won, a settlement close to the average other boards were giving their elementary teachers, board negotiating committee chairman Cheryl Murdock said in an interview Thursday.

Four meetings were needed to hammer out the new contract, and according to Murdock, negotiations "went very well".

Biggest percentage increase went to teachers at the top of the grid who were earning 8.8 per cent less than their counterparts in the secondary school at the end of the 1980-81 school year. The top salary of $36,000 compares with $36,850 under a recent Victoria County settlement, and $36,810 under a Durham County agreement.

The increase for a teacher with 10 years experience is 15.1 per cent, while teachers with less experience will receive smaller percentage increases down to a low of 11.6 per cent.

Fringe benefit costs to the board remain unchanged in the new contract, although the elementary teachers will now be covered by the same long term disability insurance plan that applies to secondary school teachers. The elementary school teachers have agreed to pay the entire cost of the plan, and its benefits will be tax deductible. The board pays half the cost for secondary school teachers, but benefits are subject to taxation.

The allowance for principals and vice principals has also been adjusted for the first time since 1978 under the new contract.

Elementary principals will now receive their normal grid position salary plus an allowance of $650 for each of the first ten teachers on their staff, and $225 for each additional teacher.

Minimum payment for a principal has been set at $2,100 above grid salary.

Elementary vice principals will receive a flat $2,800 above grid salary.

Local post offices still open, rural routes run once a week

Local post offices remain open despite the nation-wide strike by members of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers. But postmasters were told Monday that mail can no longer be exchanged between rural offices, and as a result, service throughout the area has all but ground to a halt.

Haliburton postmaster Jim Perrin said Monday that while local mail will continue to be processed, mail for sub offices such as Eagle Lake, West Guilford and Haliburton Lake cannot move through the Haliburton post office. People will not have to take mail for individuals served by the sub offices to those offices.

Rural routes from the Haliburton office have been curtailed, but will be followed once a week, on Wednesdays, primarily to allow delivery of the local newspaper.

Businesses can still get bills out to Haliburton customers through the Haliburton office, but other arrangements will have to be made

Mobile lab added to acid rain arsenal

Frank Tomassini and Charlie Chun were kept busy last weekend testing lake water at an acid rain open house in Dorset.

Cottagers bring lake water to open house in Dorset

More than 150 people brought samples of lake water to Dorset Public School over the week-end for testing by scientists from the Ontario Ministry of the Environment. A mobile lab staffed by chemists involved in the Acid Precipitation in Ontario Study was at the school Saturday and Sunday as part of an information open house on acid rain.

Along with the mobile lab were displays of rainfall monitoring devices, graphs and maps explaining the phenomenon of acid rain, and examples of the work currently underway in Haliburton and Muskoka, including a soils and vegetation study which began this spring.

Officials at the site estimated that up to 750 people visited the open house.

Lake water samples were tested in the newly completed mobile lab which was added to the ministry's water quality testing arsenal this year.

Frank Tomassini, project scientist from the water quality section of the MOE, said the lab, a modified $55,000 motor home with $100,000 worth of electronic equipment, will enable the ministry to gather more accurate data on acid rain and other pollutants affecting water quality.

Because it can analyze samples quickly and move almost anywhere in the province, the lab will make it easier to gather data on "sequential events" such as rainfall and snowfall, Tomassini said. It will also be used for routine monitoring of water quality in the Great Lakes, he said.

Those who brought lake water samples to the weekend open house waited only minutes for the electronic instruments to determine the sample's acidity and buffering capacity.

Once the pH or acidity had been measured, acid was added to the water at a controlled rate, and changes in acidity were monitored every few seconds. The results were fed into a computer terminal and provided a "titration curve", or graphic picture of the rate at which the acidity of the water increased. From the curve, the scientists determined the buffering capacity of the lake and the "end point volume", or amount of acid that could be added before all the buffering material was used up.

Based on the data Tomassini and his colleagues determined the sensitivity of a given lake to acid rain.

The information was not reliable for scientific purposes because collection methods were not controlled, Tomassini said, but it did give property owners an idea of how their lake is reacting to acid rain.

Reliable data for some 180 Haliburton County lakes has been collected by MOE scientists and was made available to the public at the open house.

Work on the phenomenon continues in an effort to build up a data base that will determine the origin, extent and levels of acidic precipitation. As well, scientists hope to create a 'model' that will show how given lakes will react to acid loading.

Fergus fiddler, London dancer win open competition at Wilberforce

Elizabeth Woods of Fergus, Ontario, and Shelley Hopper of London, Ontario emerged as the top competitors in the fifth annual Wilberforce Legion fiddle and step dance contest Saturday.

Woods beat out 31 other competitors to take the $100 top prize in the open fiddle competition. Hopper took 14 other hopefuls to win the $100 first prize in the open step dance category.

Preliminary competition got underway at 1 p.m., while the finals in the various categories were held in the evening.

In the fiddle division, Scott Woods of Fergus took the $20 first prize in the 12 and under category. Tracy Hastings of Shanty Bay was second, winning $15. Third prize of $10 went to Shawn Mundell of Warsaw, Ontario.

An 18 and under competition, Bruce Woods of Fergus found the judges' favour, winning $25. Pat Stackhouse of Lonsdale was second, earning $20, while Mark Stackhouse, also of Lonsdale, took third prize of $15.

The 19 to 59 category was won by George Samsen of Oshawa. He earned $30 for his efforts. Second prize of $25 went to Gordon Crosby of Bracebridge. Third prize of $20 went to Woodrow Jones of Bobcaygeon.

In the 60 and over category, George Gayne of Sarnia was the top player, and he took home $30 for his performance. Al Smith of Minden was second, winning $25 while third place and $20 went to Fiddlers from across Ontario came to Wilberforce Saturday to compete in the fifth annual fiddle and step dance contest sponsored by the local Legion. Here a competitor in the 19 to 59 class does his best to impress the judge.

Bill Everett of Orillia. Elizabeth Woods nearest rival in the open class was Kendra Woods, who took the $75 second prize. Third prize of $50 was awarded to Victor Pasowisty of Whitby.

The oldest fiddler at the competition was Jimmy Thompson of Bobcaygeon, who is 84. Thompson received $10 in recognition of his accomplishment. The youngest fiddler was Shawn Mundell, age 8, of Warsaw, who also received $10.

In the step dance competition, Tracy Hastings of Shanty Bay earned the $20 first prize in the 12 and under category. Her sister, Trisha Hastings, was second, winning $15, while third prize of $10 went to Shawn Mundell.

In the 18 and under category, Linda Mundell of Warsaw was the top competitor, earning $25 for her efforts. Second prize of $20 went to Donna Montgomery of Omeenee, while third prize of $15 was awarded to Sonja Hastings of Shanty Bay.

There were no entrants in the 19 to 49 category.

In 50 and over competition, Morris Montgomery of Omeenee impressed the judges enough to take away the $30 first prize. Clifford Crosby of Coe Hill was second, earning $25. In third place was Jimmy Thompson, who was awarded $20 for his efforts.

There were only two entrants in the open category. Winner Shelly Hopper edged out her mother, Gladys Hopper, who took the $75 second prize.

Jimmy Thompson was the oldest dancer, and earned $10, while the youngest competing dancer was nine-year-old Trisha Hastings of Guthrie. She also received $10.

Norm Gunter of Vancouver, B.C. had travelled the furthest distance to compete. While the event was not a financial success, organizer Wally Marks said Monday that this year's contest may at least break even.

Marks said the dinner put on by the Legion Ladies Auxiliary proved popular with the crowds, and proceeds from the meal may help pull the contest into the black.

A dance in the evening to the music of the Rudy Meeks orchestra was also well attended.

The contest is expected to be held again next year on the first weekend in July, Marks said.

A total of 32 fiddlers came to Wilberforce last Saturday for a day of old time music and friendly competition. Hundreds of dollars in prize money was up for grabs.

A good crowd was on hand last Saturday for the fifth annual Wilberforce fiddle and step dance contest. The event attracted 47 contestants, who competed for hundreds of dollars in prize money. Top fiddler of the day was Elizabeth Woods of Fergus, who won the Open class. The top dancer was Shelley Hopper of London, Ontario, who won $100 for her efforts in the Open class.

Local post office workers are members of the Canadian Postmasters and Assistants Union, and are not affected by the CUPW walkout.

There are indications that the strike may continue throughout the summer, since neither side appears willing to compromise, and if talks do not resume soon, local offices may be ordered closed by the government.

While the strike may be seen as a boon by people who want a breathing space from bills, charge card holders will still have to pay their accounts at the usual time or face high interest rates on the outstanding balance.

Seat vacant

Torch tips, farmhouse burns down

A two storey frame farmhouse burned to the ground last Thursday afternoon despite the efforts of Stanhope and Dorset volunteer firemen.

The house, on Highway 35 just north of the Stanhope Township boundary, had recently been purchased, and the new owner was carrying out renovations when the fire began at about 2:20 p.m.

Stanhope firechief George Wilson said a propane torch is believed to have caused the blaze.

Wilson said the house owner had left the torch burning inside the house while he went outside to a garage to get some solder. The torch apparently tipped over, igniting paper on the floor. Within minutes the blaze spread to the entire structure.

Stanhope firemen responded to the call even though it was outside their coverage area. Dorset firemen were notified, and also responded.

Wilson said tanker trucks from both departments were used in the firefighting effort, but the house could not be saved.

At the height of the blaze the heat was so intense that firemen could not get near the dwelling.

An adjacent garage did not ignite, but was damaged by the heat.

Corky the Clown from Toronto put on quite a show for young and old alike last Wednesday at West Guilford.

Good food and good fun were the order of the day last Wednesday in West Guilford as the recreation committee sponsored a day long celebration that culminated with a fireworks display.

Rain didn't dampen enthusiasm for races, contests

West Guilford celebrates Canada Day

West Guilford held its Canada Day celebrations in style, Wednesday as the residents raised the Canadian Flag at noon and joined in the nation-wide singing of 'Oh Canada'.

When the official opening ceremonies declared the festival underway, the fun began. Although rain fell periodically during the afternoon, it didn't dampen the spirits of the celebrants as they participated in fun races, horseshoe tournaments, the annual Pine Lake swim, cross cut saw contest, a pie baking contest and a mini-rummage sale. Throughout the day the Shriner's clown Corky from Toronto entertained children, young and old alike.

The grueling Pine Lake Swim had three strong swimmers competing with all three coming across the finish within a couple of minutes. Dave Nicholls took first, Ian Cooper, second and Corinne Handy third. All are from West Guilford. Nicholls was presented with the Ken Sheppard Memorial Trophy. All the men were flexing their muscles in the horseshoe pitching contest by George Nicholls, of West Guilford and Rob Verona of Toronto, took first prize for the Clarence Bain Memorial Trophy.

Emile Duchene and Bob Woodcott, both of Haliburton, proved they would fit into the old-time log camps as they won first for sawing through a 14 inch log in one minute 44 seconds. Although the pair were able to finish in record time, two other competitors, Gerald Griffin and Steve Sisson, found the going tough and gave up mid-way through the log. Two ladies, Stella Walker and Cary Drysdale, finished the log.

Local pie bakers had the privilege of having their pies tested by NHL stars during the day's festivities. Judges for the contest were Ron Stackhouse, an NHL player, Brian Watson, a former NHLer, Walt McKecknie, an NHL player, and Bernie Nicholls, just drafted by an NHL team.

Winners of the pie baking contest were Eileen Stamp and Mary Jackson, who tied for first; Lorna Stackhouse, second; and Greg Cooper, third.

As the day drew to a close, the celebrants gathered together for another singing of 'Oh Canada', before a dazzling display of fireworks ended the celebration.

Bog still floating in Horseshoe Lake, officials say they can do nothing

Boaters in Horseshoe Lake will have to be cautious until the floating bog in their lake breaks up and disintegrates, according to Parks Canada.

The floating bog which detached from a swamp over two weeks ago, has been drifting to all areas of the lake, posing hazardous for unwary boaters.

But little, apparently, can be done to have the floating island removed.

"It's a natural thing that we don't deal with," Bruce Kitchen of Parks Canada, said Thursday. Parks Canada is responsible for the Haliburton County reservoir system for the Trent-Severn Waterway of which Horseshoe Lake is a part.

According to Kitchen, similar problems have arisen in the Kawarthas but nothing has usually been done to remove the floating bogs. If the bog is blocking a property owner from gaining access to the water, Kitchen suggested the property owner might cut through the bog.

Parks Canada would only consider removing the bog if it was trapped in the dam or blocking a navigation channel, Kitchen said.

Daring aerobatics will highlight show

Stanhope fly-in set for Sunday

The thunder of high performance engines will rumble over the Highlands Saturday afternoon as aircraft arrive from many parts of Ontario to take part in the 1981 version of the Stanhope Fly-in and airshow.

Traditionally one of the summer's top local events, the airshow will include exciting performances by helicopter and aircraft pilots, the Canadian armed forces and the Toronto Sport Parachute Club.

Highlight of the day is expected to be the performance of Al Hauff, a former Canadian national aerobatic champion. Hauff will pilot a Pitts S-1-C biplane through a series of precise and spectacular maneuvers, including such stressful patterns (for both pilot and aircraft) as diving snap rolls, hammerheads, outside cuban eights, outside square loops, tail slides, and the unbelievable Lomcovak in which the aircraft literally tumbles out of control for several seconds. For many of the stunts, Hauff will activate smoke canisters on the wingtips of the tiny biplane, leaving an imprint for spectators to follow and photographers to record.

The Super Pitts Hauff flies has a symmetrical airfoil, allowing it to fly upside down, and is stressed to nine G's positive and negative, making it all but indestructible in aerobatics. The aircraft has a 200 horsepower engine which gives it a top speed of 212 mph., a cruise speed of 150 mph. and a stall speed of 60 mph.

A former test pilot and Air Canada captain, Hauff is now a professional airshow performer.

Besides the aerobatics of the Pitts biplane, the airshow will also include aircraft and personnel from the Canadian Armed Forces, radio controlled model aircraft, a Hughes 500 helicopter performing a kind of aerial ballet, and precision parachute jumping by members of the Toronto Sport Parachute Club.

The show gets underway at 1:30 p.m. and will continue through to about 3:15 p.m. Along with the flying, the airshow will also feature displays of antique cars and the traditional beef barbecue which will be available from 11:30 a.m. onward.

Admission to the show is free, but parking near the site costs $1.

Call a halt

In the dark days of the industrial revolution, when workers were pawns of the profit motive and managers ruled with an iron hand, the seeds of unionism were planted. Desperate to improve their lot, workers banded together. They fought, and sometimes died, to achieve safer conditions, better pay, shorter hours. They brought humanism to the forefront, demanding respect for dignity and individuality in the face of mechanization. For decades, Canadian unions fought to right wrongs. But having won what was right, they demanded more. To justify their salaries, union leaders created antagonism where none was necessary. They convinced workers that a fair return for a fair day's work was no longer enough. New demands came forward; demands for shorter hours, more time off, more benefits. And the public suffered. Not only did products and services cost more and more with each contract settlement, but strikes inconvenienced millions and weakened the economy.

Today, the trend continues. Unions that were formed to win basic rights have become negative forces, eating away at management's authority, straining the public purse and corporate coffers, fueling the fires of inflation.

The Canadian Union of Postal Workers is a case in point. There was a time, no doubt, when postal workers were poorly paid; when working conditions were less safe and less comfortable than they could have been. But that time has gone. Under the contract which recently expired, inside postal workers who put in a 37 and a half hour week were earning an average of $19,000. Their benefit package was generous, their holidays were adequate, and their working conditions were carefully monitored. They made more and did less than hundreds of thousands of other people in Canada. But they were not satisfied. They wanted a pay raise that exceeded inflation, but were not prepared to work harder for it. They wanted television monitors removed from the workplace, but were not willing to guarantee that theft from the mail would decrease, or that they would remain at their work stations without surveillance. They wanted lengthy paid maternity leave, a benefit that if applied to the entire civil service (as it surely would be if CUPW won it) would cost millions of tax dollars. The government said no. And the result is another postal strike.

Canada's postal system used to be the envy of the world. Today it is a laughing stock. It takes days, even weeks for a letter to travel a few hundred miles. Parcels languish in warehouses, or are broken open and their contents stolen. Clearly something has to be done. But that should not involve paying more for workers who do less.

The time has come to get tough with unions like CUPW, that have won what is reasonable and make unreasonable demands. Postal workers are entitled to a salary increase of no more than the cost of living. The government should offer it to those who want to work, and fire those who do not.

Public pressure

Work to stem the tide of acid rain is proceeding at the measured pace of science, but the lack of any dramatic breakthrough hasn't diminished the interest of people around the province. As last week-end's open house in Dorset showed, ordinary citizens are interested in the fate of Ontario's lakes. And that interest may soon be turned into the political clout that will get the problem stopped at the source.

On the scientific front, much is being done. Testing continues, and already data exists to predict which lakes are most sensitive to acid rain and which lakes can withstand its impact for a long time to come. Investigation is underway to determine if acid rain harms growing conditions, and if its effect on plants can be measured. Fish too, are under scrutiny, as are other forms of aquatic life.

The end result of all this work will be a predictive model that will tell scientists how long it will take for sensitive lakes to lose their fish. And the information will also give politicians some solid evidence to throw on the desks of their counterparts in the United States.

But throughout the process, the public's help will be needed. By understanding the scope of the problem and supporting the work of scientists, citizens can help ensure that answers are found. And by lending their support to political pressure for abatement legislation, the public will let Americans know that Ontario's lakes won't die without a fight.

Much is being written these days about the benefits of the computer age. Once fanciful visions of computers that could perform dozens of functions in homes and offices are either a reality already or about to become so. Computers will give us more leisure time, the pundits of the electronic age tell us. Desk top machines not much bigger than a typewriter will allow hundreds of thousands of people to work at home instead of trekking to the office. Computers will soon be handling the mundane chores that now take so many hours of most people's days. They'll give us scope and time to be more creative.

All of this sounds good. We've come to believe in technology over the years, and the more complex the technology, the more faith we're likely to put in it. But have you ever wondered what will happen to a society dependant on computers if the power goes off? No one ever writes about the kind of chaos that would result. And you never hear anyone talking about the fact that computers, marvels though they are, can and do break down.

At the Echo, as at most newspapers in Canada, both small and large, the computer age has been with us for several years. The words you're reading were first typed on an old Underwood and then retyped on an electronic wonder that beeps and whirs and hums, using a tiny strobe light to imprint the image of each letter on a strip of light sensitive paper in a fraction of a second. It will spew out hundreds of lines of type as fast as the operator can hit the keys, and each line is automatically justified so that columns come out even on both sides.

A second machine that works on the same principle produces the larger type used in headlines and advertisements. The words are imprinted on long strips of paper and turn black when they're passed through an automatic processor. The strips are then waxed and cut and placed on pages above stories and in advertising layouts to make up the newspaper you read.

When the machines work well, as they almost always do, they are fast and efficient. They save countless hours of painstaking work and enable three or four people to produce a newspaper that could not have been produced by twice that number a few years ago. But they are machines after all, and they sometimes cease to function. Unlike other mechanisms, however, computer typesetting machines can't be fixed with a liberal application of bailing wire, bubble gum or scotch tape. When they stop beeping and whirring, you can do a few basic things like replacing logic boards or strobe lights, and that's about it. When the spare parts kit has been exhausted and the machine is still silent, it's time to call an expert.

That's precisely what happened this week at the Echo. Our headliner machine, as we call it, stopped working, and could not be coaxed back to life by our less than expert hands. We had no choice but to cease production on Tuesday and wait until a technician could arrive from Toronto on Wednesday to repair the beast. That's why your paper was a day late this week.

And that, too, is why you should be just a little skeptical about the virtues of the computer age. Micro chips and light emitting diodes are great when they work, but when they quit, you feel so darned helpless.

Column

By Sue Cooper

Honestly, I don't know how many times I've put a piece of paper into this typewriter, intending to write my very first newspaper column, but it never seems to come out with the right words on it. In fact most of my efforts seem to be a long way from right. You'd think it should be easy enough to write a straightforward newspaper column. I would imagine anyone with an ounce of intelligence could muscle through it.

But I can't. You see, it's like this: I always start off very enthusiastic, wanting to do a great job. But with every word I put on the paper the larger the knot in my stomach gets. And as if that isn't hard enough to cope with, my nerves get worse and my hands start to shake.

As the shaking continues, it gets harder to type with my fingers getting jammed into the crevices between the keys. With my fingertips aching, I try to continue.

Usually at about this point I have to get a coffee, for concentration you understand, but it only adds to my frustration, it seems. As I start to down my coffee, inspiration strikes and I can think of at least a dozen ways to write that last sentence better. But once again the right words don't seem to come out on the paper.

With my creative juices flowing, and my coffee now gone, there is no excuse for not finishing the rest of the column. No reason except I have a great fear of seeing it in black and white and then thinking, "why did I write that?"

Now, I realize most people who have ever worked for a newspaper have at one time or another had to write their first column. But surely it couldn't have been this horrifying.

Surely, most people on this earth would have more good sense than to put themselves through this agony time after time. But every week, or daily in the larger communities, writers sit down at their typewriters to pound what they would like to think

Feir Play

by Creighton Feir

There were many activities going on in Haliburton County over the past weekend that were well attended but it was hard not to focus your attention on the village of Haliburton where everything just seems to be booming. It was an exceptionally busy weekend in Haliburton with the 19th summer exhibition and sale of arts and crafts opening at the Senior Elementary School to a very large opening night crowd and then, of course, on Saturday morning hundreds made their way to the grand opening of the Sky Slider, which is one of North America's most spectacular slide rides. Located in the heart of Haliburton Village this exciting slide ride has drawn the attention of people from all parts of Ontario who are looking forward to coming here sometime in the near future to try it out. In the past we were always hearing talk about the fact that when we do get visitors into our area there is nothing for them to do. Now Haliburton has the answer to this long asked question. The attractions are here now and there's plenty for people to do and see. Visitors to the village will have the opportunity to view the sites on the mini train that will be running on a fixed schedule and the train has a seating capacity of around 36. Some of the stops on the route will include a visit to the Haliburton Museum in Glebe Park, and a look at our two modern schools, a visit to the new Head Lake Park and Rails' End Gallery and a stop at the Sky Slider. Last Friday night I took the opportunity to walk around to take a first-hand glimpse at what has been going on and when one opens their eyes there's a great deal to see. What more can be said than already has been said about the new Head Lake Park and the terrific job that has been done on the lakeshore? You must admit that it's quite an improvement over the old buildings and sawdust piles that used to occupy this location. While walking up the main street to the Sky Slider and noting the many modern changes that have been made to the business section it was hard for me to realize that the Haliburton that I know now is a far cry from the Haliburton that I grew up in. All of these great strides of progress that we have seen unfold before our very eyes would not be here today if it were not for certain people who had a dream of what should happen in the future. Many of the projects that have been accomplished here would never have come true if it were not for men with a progressive outlook such as the reeve, Murray Fearrey, along with his council, local businessmen with the desire and drive to get things moving and let's not forget Steve Bowskill whose foresight and ambition has made our biggest project, the Sky Slider, not only news but reality.

Just recently in one of my columns I was on the subject of the deplorable condition of the sign in front of the Bell Canada office on the main street in Haliburton advertising the Haliburton Winter Carnival. It was badly weather beaten and a sight for sore eyes for the visitors driving into our community. The Rotary Club decided to do something about it and had the sign repainted to advertise the Rotary Summer Carnival. When I first saw this sign being erected I could hardly believe that anyone would allow this gaudy mess of colors to be on display for the public. I came home and thought to myself, oh well, maybe the sign isn't that bad after all; maybe it's just me who seems to be kicking about something different every day of the week. I thought I would ask a few of my friends what their opinion of the sign seemed to be and they all came up with the same answer, that this sign was nothing but a mess. Surely to goodness we can come up with a better sign that this in the near future.

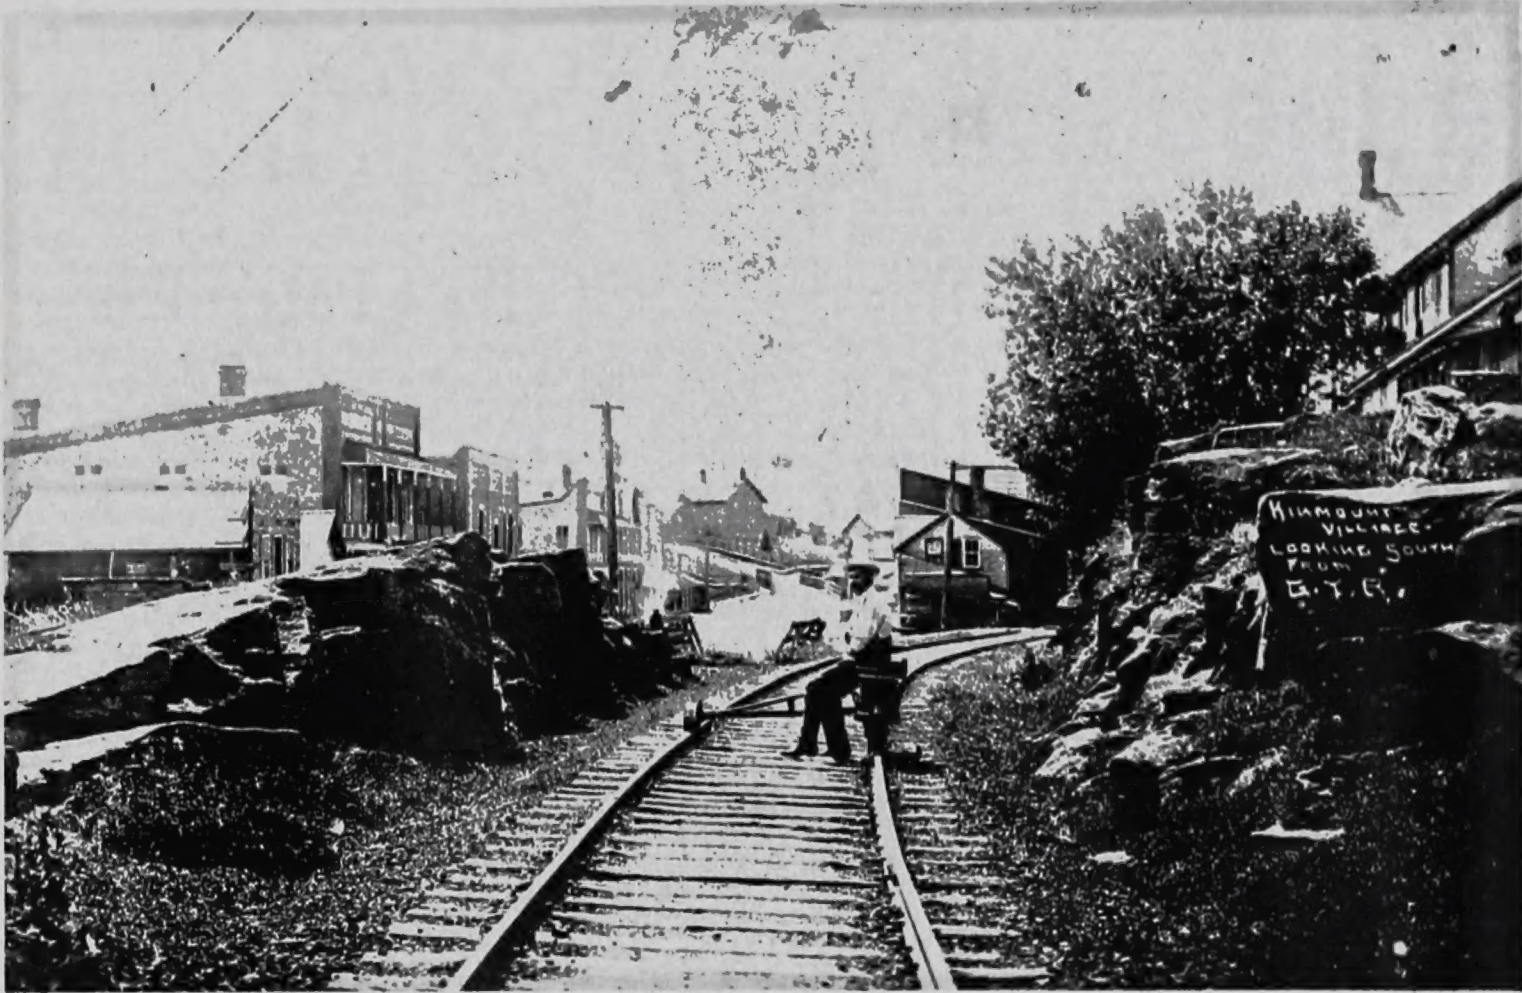

While still talking about matters in the complaint department, how can we overlook the fact that Canada celebrated its 114th birthday on Wednesday, July 1 and as far as the village of Haliburton was concerned, it was just another day. You could count on your own hand the number of Canadian flags that were flying here and a visit through the main street proved the point that no one seemed to care. We could only see one Canadian flag flying on the main drag and that one was in front of Don Bank's Fruit Market. Two business places on Maple Avenue, Emmerson Lumber Limited and Kennedy Surplus and Exchange, are also to be congratulated on flying two large Canadian flags. Our hats are off to the people of West Guilford for flying the flags and celebrating Canada Day with special events but we say, shame on the council and businessmen of Haliburton for ignoring this most important day of the year. Let's hope that this doesn't happen again and that the council and businessmen will get together before this day rolls around next year and get some bunting up and some flags flying.

One of the biggest complaints reaching our office and the tourist information booth is the lack of public washroom facilities in the village of Haliburton. This problem, we understand, will be remedied in the very near future. Money has already been allotted for this project and in my opinion, the location for these washrooms is all important. They should be constructed in the area near the entrance to the new park, somewhere in the vicinity of the caboose. This would mean the construction of separate change rooms at Rotary Beach.

This week I was given a copy of an article written by Zena Cherry which appeared in a recent issue of the Toronto Globe and Mail. It tells of a crazy mixed-up auction which was put on by the Zonta Club recently at St. Lawrence Hall in Toronto. Among the articles auctioned off was a sleeping tom cat, a limestone carving which was donated by my friend and former Minden resident, sculptor George Pratt, who now resides in Vancouver.

Some people still seem to be of the opinion that during this present mail strike the post offices in Minden and Haliburton are closed. We would like to inform everyone that these two offices are open and they are servicing the people in both areas.

From the Chamber

by Bob Stinson

It's that time of year when there's something happening every week in the Highlands. A lot of planning and effort has gone into this year's activities and we would suggest you try and attend or take part in as many as possible. Here's a brief run-down on what is happening this month.

Coming Events

The Guild of Fine Arts Exhibition and Sale is already underway and continues through to July 12 at the Senior Elementary School in Haliburton. This exhibition gets bigger and better every year and the enthusiasm over this year's display has been overwhelming. Whether you wish to buy or just browse you certainly will not be disappointed. It's one of the biggest shows of its kind that you will see anywhere.

The Stanhope Air Show is taking place on July 12 at the airport and this year in addition to the aircraft will feature an antique car exhibit. There will be Armed Forces displays including helicopter demonstrations and radio controlled model airplane competitions as well. Throughout the day sight-seeing trips are available and a giant beef barbecue will be featured. The air show begins at 1:30 p.m. but get there early.

Stanhope does it again with their annual Stanhope Fun Day on July 25 at the community centre and park. The day will consist of family fun activities including a dog show, kid's field day, horseshoe tournament, beef barbecue, craft and art exhibits, wheel's parade (for bicycles), and a senior's tea and bake sale and bingo. It will all wind up with a dance and buffet in the evening.

In Wilberforce this year's "Country Good Times" is destined to be the biggest and best ever in honour of Monmouth's Centennial Year. The famous Carlsberg team of horses will be there all weekend along with a giant midway and displays and concessions. On Friday evening the beauty contest will be held and a country and western jamboree featuring Cathy Jean and the Log Cabin Boys will be held at the arena. In the Lloyd Watson Memorial Centre a teen dance will be held with D.J. Collin Kressler in charge. A ladies softball tournament gets underway Saturday a.m. along with a flea market, bazaar and bake sale and the parade goes at 1:00 p.m. Bill Downer and the Country Plow Boys will back up the amateur contest in the afternoon as well as the Good Times ball in the evening. At the Lloyd Watson centre, it's Ken Hadley and South Willow on Saturday night. Sunday begins with a pancake breakfast, the ladies softball finals and winds with a Gymkahnah display by the Rocky Hills Riding Club from Cardiff and entertainment by Cimmaron.

What a week-end!

We would like to remind all our members of the many parades that are now coming up and how important it is to their ultimate success to have you participate in them. There is no cheaper way to advertise than this that we know of. The Wilberforce Country Good Times Centennial Parade featuring the Carlsberg horses on July 18 will be the first opportunity. This is followed by the Haliburton Legion Carnival parade on Saturday, July 25. The Legion have completely restructured their event this year with an all new midway and fun rides group and a big parade featuring a number of great bands. The Minden carnival is the next event calling for a parade on Wednesday, July 29 followed by the Haliburton Rotary on the following Wednesday, August 5. The theme for Haliburton's parade this year is one close to our hearts - "Haliburton - A Vacation Paradise". Back at Minden again on August 7 a big parade signals the official opening of the Haliburton County Fair at the Minden fair grounds.

Now before you put all your regalia away until the winter carnivals you may want to take one more parade in at the Kinmount Fair, Saturday, September 5 (Labour Day week-end). This parade has grown to an enormous size and certainly makes a suitable grand finale to a summer of parades.

are much-awaited and sought after words-of-wisdom.

And I'm sitting here hoping the same thing. Thinking back to days spent in the classroom I'm trying to remember how a column should be written. What should I be saying and how should I be saying it.

But I can't remember. Trying to write this column has probably not only ruined my nerves but my memory is dulling as well. I wonder if compensation will pay?

They probably won't and my employers won't either if I can't write a newspaper column properly. The knot in my stomach is getting bigger. The only solution to this problem seems to be to act like the little red steam engine that looked at the big hill, and said "I think I can, I think I can".

I hope I can. So, now, I'm sitting in front of my typewriter, with my stomach in knots, my fingers shaking, my coffee cup empty and I'm looking at the keys, saying "I think I can, I think I can." If anyone sees me they will probably just take me away. Who knows where; just away.

There's probably an institution somewhere, where they send writers who can't write a proper newspaper column. They give kind, understanding care and never, under any circumstances, do they mention newspapers. They probably don't even have newspapers or magazines or books of any kind in the building. It's too depressing, you know.

It probably would be a nice place with gently rolling manicured lawns, gleaming white pillars and the blue sky would always be filled with huge, puffy clouds.

And out in the front lawn of this beautiful country estate setting would be a marble statue of a little red engine crashing over a good ole' Underwood. Its iron body smashing that typewriter apart.

I think I can. I think I can.

Report from Parliament

by Bill Scott M.P.

In my June 5 Report from Parliament I charged that Prime Minister Trudeau was making a serious mistake in going it alone in his fight against inflation, and that it was a responsibility of all elected members of parliament to wrestle with this problem.

I pointed out that the Trudeau/MacEachen policy of allowing interest rates to soar in Canada was a total failure in getting inflation under control, and that the result has been an astronomical increase in the rate of failures of small businesses and farms.

On June 16, 1981, Mr. Clark called upon Prime Minister Trudeau to appoint an all-party parliamentary committee to study "other means to fight inflation", as his policies are driving small businesses and farms into bankruptcy.

Trudeau answered that the Bank of Canada's high interest rate policy is due to the fiscal and monetary policies of the United States, and he said that Mr. Clark's suggestion was a "cop out".

The fact is that Mr. Trudeau and Mr. MacEachen have copped out because they refuse to involve parliament in the inflation fight, in spite of the fact that inflation continues to rise and is approaching an all-time high in Canada.

The Conservative Caucus Economic Development Committee pointed out in a memo dated June 15 that present interest rates, coupled with the economic policies contained in the government's mini-budget of October, 1980, have resulted in an inflation rate for the first five months of 1981 of 13.9 per cent.

The memo pointed out that real growth of the Canadian economy in 1980 was one-tenth of one per cent, with a predicted growth rate in 1981 of only 2.9 per cent, but only if the federal government resolves the present impasse in energy pricing agreements.

The Canadian Centre for Policy Alternatives said in a release dated June 16 that the government's high interest rate policy "doesn't make sense", and that its present economic policies are "dangerous and ineffective". The CCPA release said that the high interest rates have resulted in a reduction of economic growth and an increase in unemployment in Canada, "while prices continue to rise rapidly".

While the government's economic policies might have worked a few years ago, it is obvious that they are a total failure today. High interest rates have not discouraged consumer purchases, and figures show that in our "plastic society", credit card purchases have increased rather than decreased as interest rates have skyrocketed.

Interest rates must be lowered in Canada if small businesses and farms are to survive. And, more money must be placed at the disposal of the Farm Credit Corporation.

While Mr. Trudeau is proposing to increase Canada's foreign aid payments, I must insist that charity begins at home. We must find more money, and soon, to save our oldest and largest industry - agriculture, and to halt the rise in small business failures.

Legion edges out Kennedy's 3-1

Strong fielding cools seventh inning threat

Only one game was scheduled last Thursday in the men's recreational baseball league and it turned out to be a low scoring affair in which the Legion had little trouble handling a Kennedy Surplus team that was unable to capitalize on some solid hitting.

In the top of the first, Dave Nicholls was thrown out at first on a grounder to the pitcher and Lee Bull was called on swings before Barry Shaw connected for a home run to put Kennedy's on the scoreboard.

Jerry Walker advanced to first base on balls to start what might have been a second run, but Peter Lymburner was called out on strikes to end the drive for Kennedy's.

In the bottom of the first, Bernie Nicholls led off the order for the Legion squad but was thrown out at first after a ground shot to the third baseman. Paul Wilson then notched a double that turned into a score on an error by the left fielder.

Wade Stamp connected for a single but was left on the bag as Jim Scheffee was called out on strikes.

Stamp's hopes of advancing were cut short when he was thrown out at second to end the inning on a fielder's choice. Bob MacNaull hit into the play.

In the top of the second, Gary Burch got a walk to first base. Rene Bonfield was called out on strikes. Mike Fearrey laid down a perfect bunt to put two men on base. Ron Linklater went down swinging, and Dave Nicholls walked to load the bases.

Lee Bull was next up, but he was unable to connect and left three men on as Kennedy's hopes for a big inning were snuffed out.

It was three up and three down for the Legion in the bottom of the second, as the game began to tighten up.

Kennedy's went down quickly in the third, and Peter Lymburner was left on first base by the third out.

In the bottom of the third, the Legion moved into the lead as Bernie Nicholls connected for a home run. But the excitement created by the homer was short-lived, as Paul Wilson and Wade Stamp flied out, and Barry Robertson went down swinging.

It was three up and three down for both teams in the fourth inning.

The top of the fifth started well for Kennedy's as Dave Nicholls walked to first. But Lee Bull was called out on a forced play and Jerry Walker flied to the second baseman

Lunker bass wins tournament for U.S. angler

A five and a half pound largemouth bass has won the fourth annual opening week tournament at Elephant Lake Lodge for a Pennsylvania fisherman.

Rae Kissling of Burnville, Pa. topped some 19 other anglers in the tournament, garnering the runner up title as well with a 4 lb. 15 oz. largemouth.

Anglers from Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York, as well as Ontario, took part in the event.

Kissling's catch won him a trophy and $100. As well, his fish will be mounted for trophy display.

Although the tournament was restricted to lunker bass, a number of other game fish were also landed, including muskie, the largest of which weighed in at 12½ lbs. and walleye, one of which tipped the scales at 6 lbs., 12 oz.

Hustlers win at home, lose away in week's action

Last Wednesday the Minden Rockcliffe Hustlers soundly thumped the Downeyville Royals 8-1 on a three hitter by Jack Snell.

The game started off as a close contest in the first two innings as both sides were retired in order. Then the local erupted for three runs in the third and two more in the fourth to take full control of the game. The Royals picked up an unearned run in the fifth inning.

Big hitters for the Hustlers were Bernie Nicholls with three singles and Gene Newell with two doubles.

On Sunday afternoon in Lindsay the Hustlers, who were short of players due to injuries and absences, dropped a close contest to the Juveniles. It was a closely played contest from start to finish with the locals picking up two in their half of the inning. The score remained that way until the sixth when the Hustlers picked up two runs to go ahead 3-2. In the

Glamorgan seniors get permission for shuffleboard

A regular meeting of the Glamorgan Township council was held Tuesday, June 16. Robert Lindsay discussed a deck which had been added to his cottage without a building permit and which appears to encroach on the original allowance for road. Weldon McPhail reported his actions on this matter.

Mary Ferns and Curry Bishop requested that council delete the conditions attached to recommendation for approval of application for consent H48/81, H125/80, H126/80 and H127/80. Applications for consent not finalized were also discussed.

Weldon McPhail reported his discussion of June 10, 1981 with J.D. McDermott, M.C.I.P. which dealt with these matters.

Edward Hunter presented a verbal quotation for insurance coverage for the township. Council requested a written quotation for further consideration.

The clerk made council aware of the provisions on By-law 77-1 with reference to voting on motions.

Application for consent #H53/81 was not approved as it contravenes schedule "c" of by-law 79-14. Application for consent #84/81 was not approved as it contravenes part 7(a) of by-law 79-14.

Council will ask its solicitor to make Redstone Pines Inc. aware of the procedure to amend by-law 79-14 and at such time that Redstone Pines is ready to proceed with the agreement council is willing to address the subject.

The hiring of Greg Remmings, Diane Madill and Karen Franke for the Summer Canada 1981 program was confirmed.

The clerk was authorized to write a letter to New Horizons stating that any equipment installed in the township community centre remains the property of the senior citizens club. Approval was given for the senior citizens club to install shuffleboard courts near the community centre.

for the second out. Peter Lymburner then hit into a fielder's choice to end Kennedy's drive.

The Legion was also ineffective in the fifth inning, as Carl Heins and Jim Debenham failed to make first and Bernie Nicholls struck out to retire the side after Barry Robertson had advanced to first on an error by Kennedy's third baseman.

Bill Dobson went down swinging and Rene Bonfield fled to centre field in the top of the sixth inning before Sheldon Nicholls and Ron

In the bottom of the sixth, Paul Wilson and Wade Stamp went down in order before Jim Scheffee notched a single that, coupled with a single by Bob MacNaull and a stolen base, gave the Legion a 3-1 lead.

The inning ended when Bob Nichol fled to left field.

It was do or die for Kennedy's in the top of the seventh, and for a while it looked like they might come through, but it wasn't to be.

Lee Bull lead off with a double, and an error by the shortstop put Barry Shaw on first. Four bad pitches then advanced Jerry Walker to first, and Kennedy's were threatening, but Lymburner, Dobson and Bonfield went down swinging to end the game.

Results from last Tuesday's games were not available.

Winning pitcher was Sharman while Snell took the loss.

The Hustlers are currently in first place with a 9-3 record and will be out to revenge their loss as they meet the Hustlers at home this Wednesday night at 8:00 p.m.

Club seeks parade entries

The Haliburton Rotary Club is calling on local businesses, organizations, camps and individuals to enter a float in the parade at the upcoming summer carnival.

Up to three marching bands are expected to be on hand for the parade this year, but a large number of floats are needed to make the event a success.

Theme of the parade this year is 'Haliburton - A vacation paradise' which should provide plenty of scope for creativity among the entrants.

Prizes will be awarded for the best boys or girls group, the best commercial entry, the best decorated bicycle, the best clown or comic, the best antique cars, and the best special entries.

Floats will be judged on the basis of originality of effort, and all entries must be decorated.

The parade gets underway at 6:45 p.m. Wednesday, August 5, so entrants have close to a month to come up with a prize winning float.

More information can be attained from members of the carnival parade committee; Gerry Dawson, Max Strang or Ken Morley.

Dancers, choir perform at opening

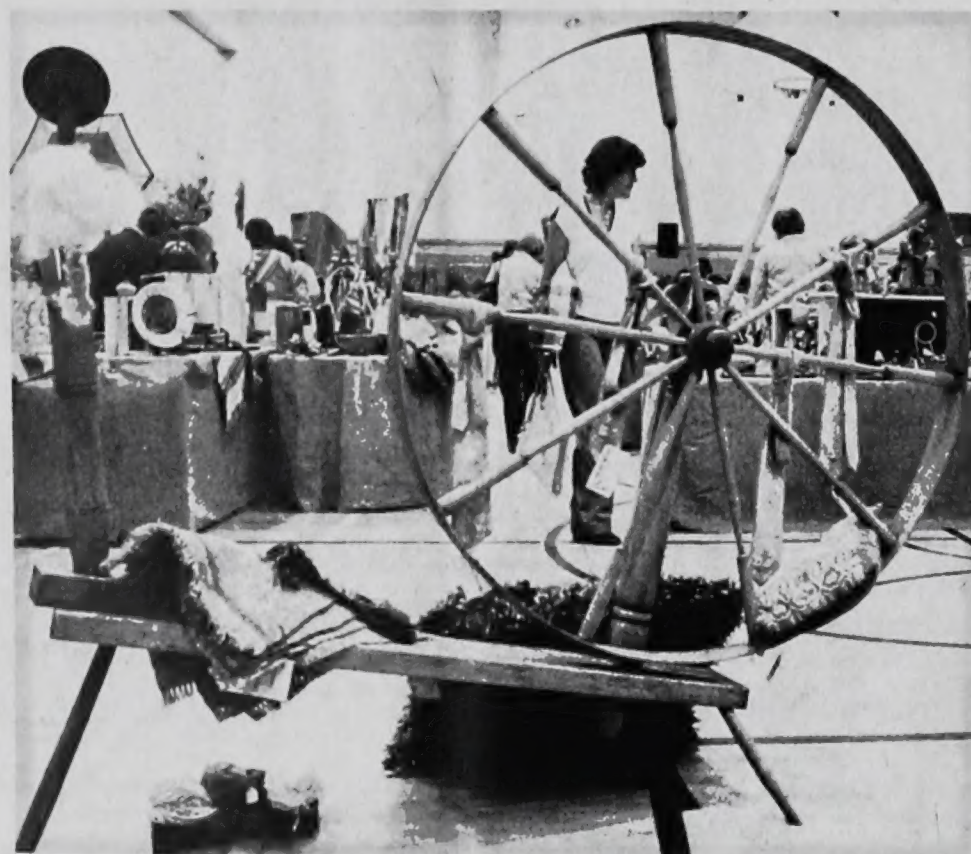

by Leopoldina Dobrzynski

On opening night of the Guild's 19th annual summer exhibition and sale, a large crowd filled the library of the Senior Elementary School to capacity. Entertainment was provided by East Indian dancers and the Guild's choir under the direction of Marilyn Stouffer. Donna Monk, president of the Guild, thanked Marion Langdon, the show's convenor and then introduced Lucinda St. Pierre the new curator of the Rails' End Gallery. Lucinda has already persuaded many new artists and craftspeople to come to Haliburton for the exhibition, which, because of its size, is now being held in the gymnasium of the school. The show is on until July 15, so don't miss the chance of seeing the artwork, antiques, pottery, weaving, needle-

Regular activities began on Monday morning with fun and fitness. Later in the afternoon the ladies and gentlemen worked on their projects in the craft room. After supper it was our pleasure to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Morley Johnston to our home. They showed us many interesting slides of their home in Ecuador, South America and told us about their missionary work in that country. All those who watched the slides, thoroughly enjoyed them and we would like to thank Mr. and Mrs. Johnston for sharing them with us.

Tuesday morning Rev. Denny of Haliburton Anglican Church, held service in the chapel. Barbara Troce-wiez accompanied by Agnes Taylor led in the singing of hymns.

In the afternoon, bingo was held in the main lounge. As usual there was a good turnout for the game.

Wednesday evening, the student helpers turned out in full force for games night. The residents and students enjoyed an evening of euchre, cribbage and crockinole. Thursday afternoon the ladies of Gelert brought lunch for the tea party. They served a variety of sandwiches, squares and cupcakes. Our thanks to the ladies for a very nice afternoon.

The regular Thursday night bingo's will not be held for the summer months but will resume again in the fall. We would like to give a special thanks to the Kinsmen for holding the bingo every week and the residents are looking forward to seeing them again in September.

lize the whole plot had been choreographed by someone after my job, not-so-subtly saying it was time I retired. I went over the potential power-hungries, the dissidents, the ladies to whom I'd told to stop crying on my shoulder. I couldn't think of one with the brains to orchestrate it or the ability to step into my heavy shoes.

Last straw was getting home and finding on the back porch a bottle of home-made pickle relish, sitting in a bowl of rice, with a message:

"Roses are red, violets are purple; And we know June 2 is your birthday too".

It had to be my neighbour, whose son-in-law has the same birthday, and who makes great chili sauce. She's in on it, too.

Now I know how those African prime ministers feel. Juju everywhere.

DISTRICT NEWS

Wilberforce News

by Winnie Schofield

What a busy week-end for the village with the invasion of hundreds of visitors who had come to take part in or to view the Legion's annual step dance and fiddle contest.

Sponsored by Branch 624, the well-planned event was a great success thanks to the efforts of the hard-working members. Some rain in the afternoon did nothing to daunt the spirits and everyone seemed to be having a most enjoyable time. The usual tasty dinner was provided and served by the Legion ladies. In the evening many attended the dance and were great in their praise of that popular music man, Rudy Meeks.

Next big date coming up for the Legion is July 25 when an auction sale will be held at the Legion hall. Anyone wishing to donate articles for the sale please get in touch with one of the Legionnaires. Another event to remember is the chicken barbecue that will be taking place on August 1. More about this later.

The Monmouth Senior Citizen Club will now be closed until September 1. Evening meetings will be carried on at that date until the changeover to standard time in October. Members will meet in the afternoons and lunch will be served at 12 noon. The club will make welcome any new members. For further information please phone any of the following: Hubert Dunford, president, 448-2653; Alma Noble, first vice presi-

Summer has finally sprung, thank goodness. I heard someone say last spring that we would have a hot dry summer. I can't agree about the dry yet, but it is hot enough to suit everyone, and that is the way summer should be, isn't it?

I was reading an article in Saturday's Star about Glen-garry County. Now that is a place I knew a lot about having read all of the books written by Ralph Connor (Rev. Charles Gordon). As a teenager I had the honour of meeting Ralph Connor, and when my father told him I had read all his books (I was too shy to tell him), he asked me if I had any favourite ones and I blurted out "All of them" which drew a great laugh and made me want to sink through the floor.

Jason Miller of Los Angeles, California, has arrived for his summer holidays with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Wolfraim.

All of the friends of Mrs. Jim (Helen) Burton are happy to say "welcome home" after her six weeks' stay in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough.

Carol Emmerson and Beverly attended the wedding of Carol's sister at Keswick last Saturday.

The best things to enjoy are those we can't own - a butterfly, for instance.

Canada's Wonderland holds a great mystery for children. Terry and Tony Prentice spent a day there recently with their parents. The poor parents were exhausted but Tony and Terry say they are going back "cause they didn't get to see it all".

Two events in Minden next week are the United Church summer dinner and bazaar at the church hall from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. on July 15 and the St.

Allison, one of our Happy Gang, to drive us to Silver Eagle Cottages, Eagle Lake, to fish, or maybe do some sight-seeing. Soon the majority were on the lake, and we had naught to do but watch the antics of children on the beach who were of kindergarten age. One cute little lass of about three, had a pint-size toy bucket which she was filling with clean sand from the water line while her mummy was asleep on a chaise longue. This lass with bucket lugged up to mum, then suddenly it was bottom up over mummy's tummy, making us feel like a peeping Tom who should have been fishing. Seriously it was the little girl's way of saying "I love you". Soon it was our turn to go sight-seeing chiefly of the erstwhile domain of Sir Sam's, Eagle Lake, is a pretty lake with much rock outcrop. Soon we had our picnic with ice cream dessert then returned. It was a very enjoyable day, for which we are also indebted to Barbara Ramsay here and Anne Lee there.

In the evening we had another Nancy Picard-Peggy Neville musical treat before being packed off to bed. We look forward to as many of these treats as possible, and if that were not enough, the next morning Nancy took us on a sight-seeing tour of this end of Lake Kashagawigamog in her 70 horses power boat, giving us plenty of excitement, white knuckles and much sun tan. It is incredible to see that the properties on this lake are magnificently groomed right to the water, representing a tremendous amount of labour. We thank you Nancy and Peggy for the music and then the delightful climax.

We were not prevented from attending the devotional period at which we were led by the Rev. Merv Kurtz of the Full Gospel Lighthouse in Haliburton, his wife Pam and pixie daughter Bamby provided the music. The theme from the epistle of Luke ch. 18, v.18, "What must I do to get to heaven?" is of course of paramount interest to everyone. The Kurtz bided with us to have a snack of tea or coffee and cookies to renew our acquaintance.

Hearty congratulations from the Happy Gang to Margaret Hutchinson, Diane Hutchings, Jane Swartman, Sharon Harrison, Janice Barnes, Betty Roberts, Kim Roberts, Ellen Fyfe, Nancy Wood, Cecil Richards and Lois Yakelashchek, for having completed the 10-month course as Health Care Aides, and to know they are dedicated to our care.

explain it in detail for you. It starts on July 14 and ends August 22. You will receive a certificate and decals. That is all I can tell you, the librarian will tell you the rest.

Bill Hart of Woodstock spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Phil Robinson recently. Most people talk too much about the cost of living and too little about the value of life.

Visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kellett over the week-end were Mr. and Mrs. Brock Kellett of Bramalea and Ann and Albert Flake of Minnesota. Sunday, they all enjoyed a picnic at Algonquin Park.

They say no news is good news and with the postal strike that is what we are getting; but one can bet the bills will find a way of getting through, won't they?

Mrs. Wm. Milligan and Miss Bernice Milligan of Newtonville have been visiting with Mrs. Maud Coulter, July 31.

Florence and Garnet Lee celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Sunday, July 5 at the home of their son Gary Lee and his wife Jill. Open house was held and a constant stream of friends came to pay their respects to this well-known couple. The house was gaily decorated with streamers and garden flowers. Many lovely gifts were received. Sudden showers changed plans for the reception to be held outside. Florence and Garnet Lee are long-time residents of Tory Hill in an area once known as Hotspur. We wish them many more years of happiness together.

Visitors for a short while at our home last Saturday were Bill and Win Wilson and granddaughter Sarah Brady, who is their young visitor from Kispix Valley, B.C.

Then, later in the day Helen, Alex and Shelagh Graham arrived and we had a very pleasant visit for a few hours.

Terry Fox, a true Canadian, may he rest in peace. Phyllis LeCraw, of Norland, is still in hospital. I received a phone call from Pearl Cowen in Minden recently and she will be in Civic Hospital, Peterborough, for surgery.

Some dates to remember: St. James Salad Supper will be served in Kinmount Community Hall on Saturday, July 18 beginning at 4:30 p.m. until 7 p.m. Adults: $4.50, students: $2.75 and pre-schoolers free. Come and bring your friends.

The seventh annual horse draw will be held Saturday, July 11 at Ward Memorial Park in Norland with starting time at 1 p.m. This big day is held through the auspices of the Norland Volunteer Fire Fighters and draws a big crowd each year. Let's make it even better this time! The day will feature light and heavy horses: two classes of ponies, light and heavy and women's single horse. There will be games of chance, a gate prize, a display of antique cars, a children's petting zoo, the great Haliburton Pipe Band, a refreshment booth and lots of free parking space. Admission is adults: $2, children under twelve: $1, and pre-school children, free. You can't beat that! Come early and spend the day.

Euchre results at St. James last Tuesday, ladies' high: Violet Schroter, ladies' low: Mrs. Dymott, men's high: Clara Watson, men's low: Ken Hyams and most lone hands: Billie Wilson. The lucky draw was won by Walter Williamson. It was a very nice evening with ten tables playing.

On Sunday, June 28, Gordon Peacock, on the occasion of his 80th birthday was very pleasantly surprised when 35 friends and relatives from Toronto, Lindsay and other areas held a surprise party for him at the home of their daughter, Beryl and son-in-law, Norm Gilmore. On hand as master of ceremonies was Bill Scott, M.P. and he offered his personal congratulations. Scrolls to honour Gordon's big day were received from Governor General Ed Schreyer, Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, Leader of the Opposition, Joe Clark. A meal was enjoyed by all and Gordon thanked all for making his first day as an octogenarian such a memorable one.

While Helen Graham, Bill Moss Jr. and I spent last Thursday evening in Lindsay at the auction barns, Bill Moss Sr. escorted Mary L. Pyke to the "Coby" Legion bingo. Bill tells me there was a gent there who was a beautiful pianist and during the evening he went to the piano and had the bingo fans sing, as he played "Amazing Grace", to the memory of Terry Fox.

Ken and Joan Hyams spent a few days in Toronto last week.

During the days of a strike while Bill and I were in the hotel business a favourite song of our patrons was "A Hotel Without Beer" but how sad, a post office without mail. Let's hope it's cleared up soon.

Happy birthday to "Sis" Gillis on July 22.

The large oblong whirlpool at Sir Sandford Fleming College is in use Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. and at least three of our Kinmount friends attend, for their various ailments. Olive Wilson, Margaret Telford and Mary Gillis have nothing but praise for this whirlpool and say they feel much relief after their weekly "dip". The water is sometimes at a 94 degree F. temperature and much like getting into a very relaxing bath. You arthritis sufferers, etc. should maybe look into this as I'm told that this particular pool is not too well-known.

In last week's column I mentioned some of the coming events sponsored by our very busy Legion Ladies Auxiliary, Branch #441 in Kinmount. The big dance will have been over by now but there's still the Mammoth bingo to be held Saturday, July 18 and on Saturday, August 22 the ladies will be in their glory in a bake sale and flea market. All events are to be held at the Legion Hall. Any donations will be greatly appreciated. For further information you may contact Dagmar Simpson at 488-2388 or Lil Platt at 488-2117. Raffle tickets to be drawn September 5, on that beautiful quilt can be obtained from either of the aforementioned ladies. New members will be most welcome to join and associate wives are most definitely welcome. I personally apologize for that error in the last column and hope it caused no inconvenience.

There will be other coming events and I will report as I hear of them.

Sue and Barry Wilson and their three sons, Barry Jr., Scott and Chad, all of Windsor, and Sarah Brady of Kispix Valley, B.C. have been visiting with Bill and Win Wilson at their home, of late.

Welcome home to Albert and Vi Crego, again. They're getting to be quite the travelers.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Thompson of Toronto, were weekend guests of Mary and Jim Gillis of Galway Road and on Saturday, July 4 the four happy people were boarding the Thompson yacht at King's Marina to take the tour of the beautiful Trent system, arriving back some time Sunday. There was lots of action around our town over the week-end. It looked like downtown Toronto.

I haven't tried this one yet but will, one of these days. They're called "Pecan Dainties" and make 24 squares. First, you need a pie crust in an 11 inch by 8 inch pan. Boil 1/4 cup sugar, 1/2 cup molasses, and 1/2 cup of corn syrup together for 2 minutes. Pour mixture slowly onto 3 well beaten eggs. Add few grains of salt, 1/2 tsp. vanilla, 1 cup chopped pecans, 1/2 cup raisins and 1/4 cup melted butter and stir together before pouring into the pastry, taking care pastry is well up around edge of pan. Bake at 325 degrees F. for about 35 minutes. When cold, cut into squares.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Molloy, Barry Hills and Monica Alphonso, all of Scarborough, were recent week-end guests of Joyce, Jack and Ernie Hills where a birthday was celebrated in honour of Barry. A belated happy one from me too, Barry. There are lights still off at Norland and it has been very dark over there for the past three weeks. You wouldn't want to try walking on Morrison Street after dark.

Remember our sick folk, stay well yourself and have a happy day.

Call me at 488-2399 if you'd like your news shared.

Our local buildings are being spruced up for our centennial year. The Legion hall has a fine new appearance having received a new coat of paint. The fire hall has undergone a few changes with the interior of the club room, cleaned and painted and new flooring laid. A new door is on order and should be installed shortly. The Anglican church will soon be taking on a new look as work commences on the front of the building. This project has been planned for some time now and will take a while to complete. When the outside shell is completed the inside will be renovated and money is needed for this work. A yard sale will be held on the church grounds on July 18. Many articles that have been stored for some time in the church basement will be offered to the public. Anyone wishing to donate any article or tool for this event please let any church member know and it will be gratefully received. Ladies of the Anglican Church are planning a bake sale for July 18. This sale will take place in front of the home of Bruce Gibbs.

The library committee members were happy with the performance of Ron Oliver, master magician who held his audience enthralled with his acts of mystery and sleight of hand. He won great applause from a mixed audience of young and old and captured their attention with his lively wit and chatter.

A second delightful show for young people will take place on July 31 when the Lampton Puppet Theatre presents another of their fine performances. An atmosphere of former days will be supplied with old-fashioned cinema and comedy. All this takes place at the community centre at 2 p.m. on Friday, July 31.

Awards presented to top students at Coboconk School

The graduating class of 1980-81 of Coboconk Public School, their parents and teachers gathered at the Coboconk Legion hall for their graduation ceremonies on Friday, June 19.

The hall was decorated with a huge banner, silhouettes of each graduate and memorabilia of the students' past nine years at Coboconk Public School. Special place cards, programmes, and a formal class picture were at each graduate's table.

After a short social time, a dinner was served by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Legion. Kelly Spry asked the dinner blessing and Vicki Ferguson thanked the ladies for the meal.

James Hopkins, principal, then introduced the members of the head table: John Eakins, M.P.P. for Victoria-Haliburton; Clare Fielder, board member, Victoria County Board of Education; D.C. Parrott, superintendent of schools; Jenni Moffett, Grade 8 student; Kelly Spry, Grade 8 student; Diane Powell, Grade 8 student; the staff of Coboconk Public School: Mrs. Bev. Graham, Kindergarten; Mrs. Lynda Luff, Grade 1 and 2 and principal designate; Mrs. Ferne Scarlett, Grade 3 and 4; William Davidson, Grade 5 and 6; Miss Cindy Worsley, Grade 7 and 8, principal's relief librarian/special ed.; Mrs. Gail McFadden, special ed.

and speech teacher; Mrs. Ruby Powell, secretary; and two former staff members, Mrs. Lynda Easton and Mrs. Wendy Watson.

Mrs. Gail McFadden introduced the valedictorian for 1980-81, Diane Powell. Diane, in her speech, recalled many of the highlights of her years at Coboconk Public School and stated that she believed "they have been good years" adding "I'm sure the skills and values we've learned at Coboconk Public School will be forever valuable to us".

Miss Cindy Worsley presented the "Outstanding Effort Award" to Leanne Powell in recognition of Leanne's steady, concentrated effort all year in Grade 8.

Mrs. Jean Barkwell, presented Janice Chynoweth with the "Most Improved Grade 8 Student Award" given by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Royal Canadian Legion.

The "Outstanding Student Award" donated by OPSMTF and presented by James Hopkins was shared by Jenni Moffett and Denise Hannivan.

Clare Fielder then spoke, giving his congratulations and best wishes to each of the graduates.

D.C. Parrott commented on the responsibilities of parents of school-age children and also commended the graduates on their fine work.

Mrs. Ferne Scarlett introduced the guest speaker for the evening: John Eakins, M.P.P. Victoria-Haliburton. Eakins spoke on responsibility as it relates to the child in society. He used many references to real life situations to which the students readily related. He gave each graduate the gift of a pin bearing the coat-of-arms of Ontario.

Jenni Moffett thanked John Eakins and presented him with a small remembrance.

James Hopkins spoke briefly, reinforcing Eakins' suggestions of setting one's own goals responsibly and evaluating them as a method of planning for the future.

Then came the big moment when each graduate was called individually to come forward and accept their Certificate of Graduation from Grade 8.

The following students received Grade 8 graduation the grand opening of the Sky Slider in Haliburton last Saturday morning. I also watched the first one hundred riders who got a free ride come down the slide. During the day while walking around the site it gave me the opportunity to talk to some of those who were trying out this spectacular ride for the first time. They all seemed to be really thrilled and left me with the impression that they would all be back to try it once again. Steve Bowskill is to be congratulated for hiring mainly local contractors to work on the project. We understand that close to 40 people are being employed in one way or the other on the Sky Slider.

Haliburton Hockey Haven opened for the season on Sunday and the boys attending the camp had their first hockey workout at the arena in Haliburton on the same day. Professional hockey players are in attendance to show the young future hockey stars the finer points of the game.

Don Lloyd, manager at the arena in Haliburton and those who helped are to be congratulated on the wonderful face-lifting job they have completed with the lobby and washrooms. The interior of the building looks like a million dollars and to have nice clean washroom facilities once again is a pleasure to behold.

To say that it was busy in the village of Haliburton over the weekend would have to be the understatement of the year. It was not only busy but we have to go back a long time to remember when this many people came to town all at one time. Up to this time one had to wonder if this so-called recession we are having had finally caught up with us as business in most cases for the month of June wasn't anything to write home about. This makes us think that this doom and gloom we have been listening to could be some kind of myth. The main street in the village and some of the side streets were just a hive of activity on Friday and Saturday. Let's hope that with the many new attractions that have been added with the main one being the Sky Slider, that we can look forward to a busy summer, something that we desperately need at this point to help to boost a sagging local economy.

Workmen are busy these days putting some much needed renovations on the municipal building next to Kennedy Surplus and Exchange. They have only been on this project for a couple of weeks but great strides have been made to make the appearance of this building look better.

A little advance notice here to the fact that Vacation Bible School will be held at Lakeside Baptist Church from Monday, August 10 to Friday, August 14. Age group is 4 and up.

We hear rumours that Haliburton will be losing two of its present ministers, Rev. John Smith of the Lakeside Baptist Church and Rev. Mervin Kurtz of the Full Gospel Lighthouse, who will be moving on to other centres.

the former Beatrice Taylor. Bill Gasky is visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Russell, before attending a boys camp.

Mrs. Grace Cowan has been staying with her grandchildren, while her daughter has been ill with pneumonia. Mr. Bert Gillies is having a cataract removed in Lindsay this week.

Rev. and Mrs. Milton Barry are in Carnarvon for a month's holiday.

Jim McKay has been in the Minden Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Harrison and family of Oshawa were here for the week-end. They called on relatives and took in a strawberry festival.

Craig Windsor and daughter Cindy are here for the week-end. Cindy and her brothers have just returned from a trip to Florida.

Mrs. Irene Minaker and Mrs. Archie Brown of Lochlin leave Monday morning by coach line for a trip to the west coast.

Miss Myra Mason is home from the hospital and we were pleased to have her and June and Wilfred pay us a visit one evening.

Berry picking seems to be the order of these days. The berries this year are exceptionally large.

Red Cross swimming lessons have begun.

IN MEMORIAM

Summer is here, and with it all the excitement of friends returning to their cottages. Welcome to this lovely county of Haliburton. We, in Iron- dale, have found the month of June a little quieter. With our Sunday School closed for the summer and our regular weekly meetings ended, everyone was very pleased to get together for a luncheon, to honour the Woodall family before they left, for their new home in Brougham. As a going away present, the ladies presented the family with a beautiful quilt. We will miss Jessica and Devan as well as Dave and Nancy.

One morning, early in June, while looking out the window, we were delighted to see two deer walk down our hedgerow, only a few feet away from the house. They were not hurrying but were alert and certainly very much at peace as they walked. We also saw the huge pileated woodpecker, whomping his way through the air, at the same time, a truly exciting moment.

The same evening, we went to the dump on the Gelert Road and saw a huge black bear. The creatures must surely have been abroad that day.

Birthdays were celebrated by Jessica Woodall and Sylvia Garrick in June. We wish them both a very happy year.

Fishing season is on again. Our fishermen are as keen as ever. It is with delight we watch our six-year-old grandson show the same enthusiasm for the sport as his grandfather. They cannot resist the tug of a fish on the line, the thrill of pulling in the big one of the season.

Sandra Fecht visited Iron- dale with her six boys. Their family grew from three to six boys overnight, when she and Joe accepted responsibility for three young Vietnamese boys. We hope these young people find Canada truly a land to bring dreams true.

Our community was shocked to hear Fred Simmons had suffered a severe heart attack. He is now in Lindsay hospital and is making a remarkable recovery. The prayers of the whole community are with him as he convalesces.

We are very sorry to report Grace Simmons is not well and will have to spend some time in Princess Margaret Hospital. Our hopes and diplomats: Sheila Beudoin, Janice Chynoweth, Michael Clouston, Vicki Ferguson, Tammy Godwin, Denise Hannivan, Donna Hannivan, Edward Liness, Bradley Lytle, Katherine Lytle, Dean Michel, Jenni Moffett, Diane Powell, Leanne Powell, Kelly Spry, Gregory Whalen, and Sandra Yeo.

At the end of the presenta- tion of diplomas, the entire graduating class assembled on the stage for photographs, and then were individually congratulated by the staff members in attendance.

This signified the end of the formal graduation exer- cises. The tables were pushed back, a D.J. set up his music and the students then held a dance until 10:30 p.m.

prayers for successful treat- ment and a full recovery. Grace. Miracles do happen. One never knows when our doctors will be able to make a breakthrough and it cannot be too soon.

Also, we have been told Ray Connors was not improv- ing and had to return to hospital. We do hope all those mentioned above, will soon regain good health.

June has been a month of accomplishment. The child- ren have finished their school year and most very success- fully. Congratulations boys and girls. The local ball teams are holding their own and the pee wees are very busy selling tickets to raise money for their equipment. (If you enjoy good art, this is an excellent opportunity for a chance to obtain a beautiful painting of Lake Salerno in autumn). The local men have been working very hard to finish the parish hall. The gardens are beginning to yield produce and the line from the hymn "All things bright and beautiful" can be truly spoken of June.

June 28, the Irondale con- gregation of St. John's was invited to join Burnt River congregation at St. James, Kilmount for service and a pot luck luncheon. It was a time of good fellowship for all and, as usual, the food was delicious. Bill Scott, the federal member for this area, gladdened the hearts of the children, by presenting them with Canada flag buttons. These have been treasured and worn proudly.

Among visitors to Irondale are Ruth, Valerie and Harold Ian Macdougall from Vaughan, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Tucker and Marianne, also from Vaughan, Wilf Hancock and some of his family from Fort Erie and Norman Carr and family from Toronto.

Father's Day was celebrat- ed with gifts and visits. Here is a tribute to a father from a loving and thankful son. It's called "A Son's Debt" and was written by Henry van Dyke. "What do I owe my father? Everything. He was my best friend; a parent who knew how to be patient with an unruly child; a preacher of joyful faith, who practised what he taught; a good companion in the woods and the library; a fearless man with a kind heart; a Christian without pretense or bigotry; a true American gentleman of the democratic type. Every day I give thanks for him. May our children be able to repeat this last line of their fathers. I know I can mine. God bless you all.
